Gay Browne

Founder, Greenopia

Founded in 2005, Greenopia provides consumers with information to help them reduce their impact on the environment through their daily purchasing decisions. The organization publishes extensive green business directories, product directories and brand directories, as well as offering a growing community, news articles, blogs and tips to help everyone eat, shop and live green. Greenopia founder Gay Browne says, "I want to help people lead healthier lives in an increasingly toxic world. I really want to convince consumers and their families that these businesses can help them make a smooth transition to green living. It doesn't have to be all or nothing. Even small changes make a big difference." To find out more, be part of – or at least attend -- the Orange County "Sustainability Summit" on March 9, 2010.
